ANNUAL REPORT

1980-81

MESSAGES

From the President of the Board of Directors

I am delighted to report that all of the School's vital signs enjoyed healthy improvements during the past year:

- enrollment increased to 410 students
- current income exceeded expenses by approximately $2,900 and
- gifts to the School increased 27% to $255,800 including $155,000 from current parents and friends, $66,200 raised by the Woman's Board and $34,600 from alumni (which does not include parents who are alumni). This total includes $24,000 received from the Woman's Board after June 30th and is not reflected in the financial report for 1980-81.

The increases in enrollment and giving are especially noteworthy in view of the significant increases in tuition rates this past year.

The major undertaking of the Board this year was to develop and adopt a long range plan for the School which is printed in this report. The long range plan charts a course for building on the School's many strengths to assure its continued excellence while giving us a standard against which to measure our progress over the next few years.

Working with Dick Hall has been a great personal pleasure for me. In his two years as Headmaster he has made a significant mark on the School - recruiting several outstanding new administrators and faculty, attracting many exceptionally well-qualified students, fostering a sense of enthusiasm and purpose among all of the School's constituencies, and promoting new programs in music and computer science—while "tending the store" with remarkable effectiveness.

I never cease to be amazed at the degree of involvement of scores of parents and alumni. The members of the Board of Directors (which includes parents from all but two grades) spend countless evenings and Saturdays dealing with all aspects of the School but always are willing to take on one more responsibility or attend one more meeting.

The Woman's Board involved hundreds of parents and friends in their highly successful February auction, and the Bellringer Committee and the Parents' Association harnessed the additional energies of scores of people to raise a record amount of money, serve lunches and "woman" the switchboard.

One sad note was the death in June of Foster Hannaford, who gave so much of himself as a member of the Board of Directors for the past 48 years and as a trustee of The North Shore Country Day School Foundation for 35 years. Nearly every child in the School and most of the faculty have spent memorable hours or days at Foster's farm which he so generously offered to the School for camping experiences and nature studies. We shall miss him very much.

On behalf of the Board I want to express our thanks to all of the generous donors and countless volunteers who have contributed mightily to the School's current health and vitality.

1980-81 has been a year of planning for the future of The North Shore Country Day School. Clearly, it is essential that a school have a firm idea of its present condition before looking ahead, and the Evaluation by the Independent Schools Association of the Central States (ISACS) last October provided that framework. Twenty-two committees spent eight months preparing a self-study for inspection by visiting educators from throughout the midwest. All areas of the School were examined, with both commendations and recommendations submitted as a result. As part of our accreditation by ISACS, we are required to undergo such scrutiny every seven years. The first step was the formulation, by students, faculty, parents, and finally the Board of Directors, of the following Philosophy and Objectives:

Philosophy and Objectives

The School: The North Shore Country Day School is an independent coeducational college preparatory day school for students in Junior Kindergarten through grade 12, who are admitted on the basis of intellectual promise. The School offers rigorous academic preparation in pursuit of educational excellence. The School is committed to both the academic and personal development of its students through interaction between fine teachers and small groups of students. There is ample opportunity for individual attention in an intimate and congenial environment.

Academic Goals:

The School seeks to:

- 1. Develop intellectual curiosity, problem solving skills, creative expression, self-discipline, and the ability to organize, implement, and evaluate.*
- 2. Support inquiry, controversy, healthy skepticism, with thoughtful respect for others' beliefs.*
- 3. Cultivate intellectual, artistic and physical skills, both inside and outside the classroom.*

4. Provide broad experience in many academic disciplines, while offering opportunities to develop special competence in selected areas.
5. Foster self-confidence, initiative and self-sufficiency, as well as a realistic understanding of one's abilities and achievements.
6. Develop a sense of satisfaction from intellectual pursuits.

Social Goals: It is important for the School to provide opportunities for:

1. Interaction with an interesting and diversified student body and faculty.
2. Service to others within and outside the School community.
3. Addressing issues of social concern and life experience.
4. Developing friendships and sharing experience across a broad range of ages.
5. Cooperation with one another, understanding one's own feelings and those of others, accountability for one's actions, and development of a sense of responsibility within the community (home, school,

- local and world).
6. Participation in total group effort.

Faculty: Faculty members are selected for competence in subject matter and for their sense of responsibility for the total education of the students committed to their charge. They are dedicated to helping students reach their fullest potential. In addition, teachers serve as models. The "good teacher" is distinguished by clarity, consistency, and integrity and by the ability to relate well to students and to other adults in the School community.

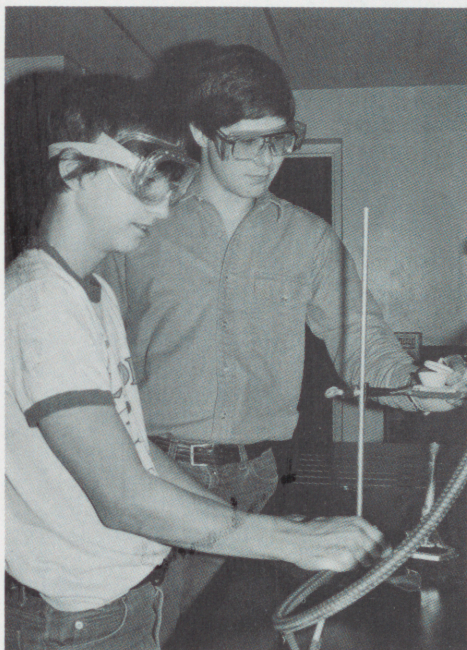

Parents: Parents play an important role in this family School. A cooperative relationship between School and home is important to the development of the student. Lines of communication should remain open among parents, faculty and administration. Parents actively participate in School functions.

Secondly, having established the goals, we set about through 22 committees to measure ourselves against the stated philosophy. We produced an extensive self-evaluation which we presented to a Visiting Committee of 16 educators from throughout the ISACS area. For four days in October these men and women attended classes, talked with directors, parents, students and faculty, and finally prepared a report culminating in a series of recommendations. We then received the renewal of our accreditation.

Thirdly, Cam Avery appointed a Long Range Planning Committee chaired by Harold Hines, and that group of directors, faculty, students and an outside educator set about the task of planning for the years to come. After much discussion and many meetings, the plan was adopted by the Board of Directors in the form of "change actions", representing the beginning of a new and exciting era in the School's history. The plans follow:

Jackie Melissas (right) teaches a summer course, Art for Parents and Tots, shown above with Mrs. Victoria Chiappetta and daughters Amy and Sarah.

Long Range Plans

Curriculum Change Actions:

- Find new ways to stimulate and show respect for academic excellence.
- Foster increased participation in the arts throughout the School, especially in the areas of drama, manual arts and dance.
- Recognize and investigate other cultures through curricular and extra-curricular programs in all divisions of the School.
- Promote speaking skills throughout the School.
- Develop computer science as a vital part of the curriculum for all students and faculty.
- Expand the science curriculum.
- Increase funding for curriculum development.

Social Purpose Change Actions:

- Require students to devote half of their Interim Week selections to programs designed to increase their awareness of social problems.

- Require students to engage in approved community service programs.
- Strengthen student government processes.
- Develop programs to deal with the needs of students and parents created by situations such as two wage earner families, single parents, divorce and remarriage, etc.
- Develop programs for parents, faculty and students which provide information, guidance and discussion opportunities regarding child development, family strength and parent responsibility.

People Resources Change Actions:

- Establish a committee of the Board to promote the School's image and enrollment.
- Further upgrade admissions and retention standards.
- Formalize and market a gifted student program.
- Rebuild the School's enrollment in its proximate communities, while retaining a diverse base.
- Develop formal reports to the Board on faculty excellence and the extent and variety of non-classroom faculty contributions.
- Provide opportunities for faculty members to reduce course loads in order to pursue other undertakings beneficial to the School.
- Move median faculty salaries toward the 90th percentile of NAIS midwestern salary distributions.
- Find subsidized, nearby housing for at least six additional faculty members.

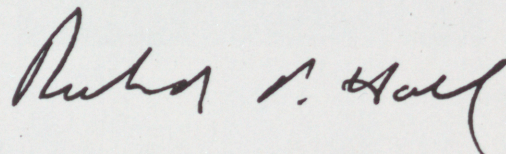

Financial Resources Change Actions

- Raise capital funds for:
 - renovation of buildings, energy-saving improvements, expansion of the Middle School, construction of a new Resource Center, enhancement of the Auditorium and subsidized housing for six additional faculty members; and
 - enlargement of endowment for enrichment of programs and upgrading of faculty salaries.
- Adjust income sources as a percent of operating expenses as follows:

Revenue Source	Current	Proposed
Tuition and fees	78%	75%
Annual giving	13	11
Endowment	5	10
Facilities rental	1	1
Miscellaneous	3	3
	100%	100%

Committee members under the chairmanship of Harold Hines were: Administrators and faculty, Robert Beerheide, Lawrence P. Chiappetta, Thomas Doar, Julie Hall, Richard P. Hall, Susan Gundlach, Joyce E. Lopas, Janet Rogers '43, Jean K. Talley; Alumni, Roger S. Griffin '60, Lawrence Howe '38; Members of the Board of Directors, Harold H. Hines, Jr., Cameron S. Avery, Richard C. Cooper, Shirley Fuller, Mark G. McGrath, James E. Murphy, Phyllis B. Perkins '46, Marvin J. Schwarz, M.D., DeLois Scott, and John A. Wing; Professor of Education, Bruce McPherson; and students, Lynne Harwich, John Molner, Laurie Osberg, and Robert Viereg.

North Shore has had a distinguished past, and the plans for the future protect the important traditions which have shaped the lives of sixty-two classes of students. At the same time, it is important to recognize that there are important goals not yet reached, and I look forward to the years ahead working in close collaboration with the North Shore family of the past, present and future in the realization of these objectives.

Richard P. Hall,
Headmaster

HIGHLIGHTS OF 1980-81

Academic Heights

- Richard Appel of Wilmette was named a National Merit Scholar and will attend Harvard.
- The Science Department begins a 12 year sequence in First Grade with a new staff member in Lower School and includes an Advanced Placement course in Chemistry.
- Four new computers for student use will hum throughout the school, under the direction of Stuart Rogers '74, who launches the program in September.
- Literary magazines include Prosody, two issues of Voices in Middle School, and the Third Grade Gazette.
- The Mirror, dedicated to the Woman's Board, was distributed before Commencement.
- Summermusic, the music camp co-sponsored with the Music Center, settled into its second year, and our first Music Major graduate, Jory Vinicour, entered the Peabody Institute in September.
- Upper School math buffs join in interscholastic competition in Mathletic Meets.
- New programs will offer Latin as a 7th grade option and a K-1 combination as a bridge between kindergarten and First Grade for selected students.
- The 2nd Annual Spelling Bee identified Third Grader Stacy Ratner as the All-School Champion.
- During spring term parents could elect courses in Shakespeare, Art, and Typing.

On-Campus

- Memorable Morning Exercises include adventurer Quentin Keynes with a film on Madagascar; blind and deaf Geraldine Lawhorn, a teacher from the Hadley School; George Hanford, President of the College Board; Bill McKee '59; two poets - Nancy Larsen and Toby Lurie; Frank Fowle dramatizing passages from the Iliad; novelist Harry Mark Petrakis; Israeli film-lecture by Nancy Gabriela Carroll; and William Ferris in Branch of the Blues.
- Eleven Chilean students spent 3 weeks in Upper School.
- Exchange students were Stephanie Bew with the English-Speaking Union and Isabelle Costa-Benezeth of France with The Experiment in International Living.
- The Country Day Fair, sponsored by the Parents' Association and Auction '81, sponsored by the Woman's Board, were enormously successful.
- Some of the Woman's Board funds have been used for energy projects such as new doors and windows.

Richard Appel, North Shore's Merit Scholar

Author Harry Mark Petrakis speaks at Morning Ex.

Off-Campus

- Interim Week for grades 8-12 spread students from London to a local veterinarian internship; field trips to Chicago cultural centers were too numerous to report; Science Fair in Milwaukee for all Upper School Students and Eighth Grade trip to Greenfield Village in Michigan were special.

On the Field

- All freshmen and sophomores are required to play on a Fall team.
- During the past year 72% of the juniors and seniors elected to play on a team.
- There were 220 contests covering soccer, football, basketball, baseball, tennis, field hockey, volleyball and softball.
- Gymnastics in Physical Education classes culminated in a Gymnastics Show by Lower and Middle Schoolers.
- The Sixth Grade sponsored the 1st Annual Sportsday for sixth graders from 5 area independent schools.

On Stage

- Student productions during the year were Arsenic and Old Lace, Iolanthe, Vaudeville, and One Act Plays by Upper School and Fiorello! by Middle School. Lower School presented Joseph and His Technicolor Dream Coat by the Fourth Grade and Abe Lincoln by the Fifth Grade.
- The Diller St. Theater, bringing professional talent to the auditorium throughout its first season, offered Kathie and Marc Johnson in a piano and cello concert, Pat Paulson, Second City, Oberlin Trio, Northwind Ensemble, Randall Duc Kim with his one-man performance of classical theatre, and an afternoon of folk music.

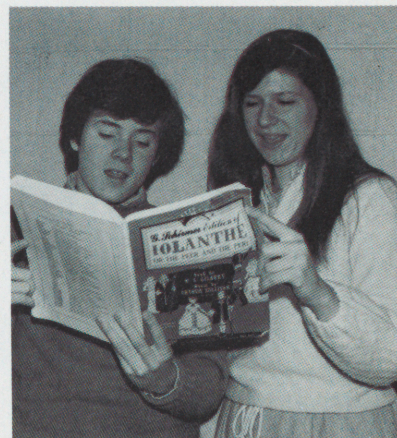

On the Move

Several professional meetings were held on campus during the year: enrichment programs for the faculty, a mathematics conference for 23 area independent school mathematics teachers, a workshop for Chicago independent school administrators by Rod Snelling.

- Nancy Jones Emrich was named Director of Development, and Stuart Rogers '74 was named Director of Computer Services, both new positions effective this summer.
- Kathleen Collingbourne, Fifth Grade teacher, retired in June after 33 years at North Shore.
- Faculty Enrichment awards given by the Parents' Association totaling $3,400 went to Linda Gibson, Lower and Middle School Music Teacher, for her participation in a choral festival in Venice; Bill Goss, Chairman of the Science Department for summer work developing a health and environmental curriculum as well as exploring uses of the computer in science; Bill Casper, Middle School Science and Mathematics teacher, for investigating utilization of the Hannaford farm in curricular and extra-curricular programs; and Nancy Geyer, Upper School Anthropology and Psychology teacher, for a 10 day wilderness experience with a native American guide on Lake Temagami, Ontario.

Scholarships

$148,700 in scholarships was awarded to 55 students, including our first ABC student. A Better Chance is a talent search organization which identifies students from minority and disadvantaged sectors for enrollment in top schools. North Shore expects two additional scholars from ABC in September.

Andrew Barr and Laurie Osberg warm up for "Iolanthe".

Faculty members winning the Parents' Association Faculty Enrichment grants are: Bill Goss, Chairman of the Science Department; Linda Gibson, Lower and Middle School music teacher; Nancy Geyer, anthropology and psychology teacher; and Bill Casper, Middle School science and mathematics teacher.

COMMENCEMENT, June 12, 1981

Anne Avery

"The satisfying life depends on a view that life is a series of problems or challenges to be faced directly and personally. When one problem is solved you move to the next with anticipation...The hardy personalities view change as a challenge...The School demonstrates an openness to change and models involvement and accepts the influence of all of its members...North Shore Country Day is certainly a collective example of both constancy and change. The School has demonstrated that growth does occur and that change is necessary if good health and prosperity are to be pursued and enjoyed."
Anne Avery, Ph.D., Clinical Psychologist, Commencement Speaker

"There is truly a family feeling about North Shore Country Day...I learned each of us was expected to be himself - that somehow this School had taught its students to encourage one another to express themselves and that each of us who attempted something could expect the support of his classmates...Each of us was encouraged to give something of himself and each of us who did has been richly rewarded." Philip Brooks, Class Speaker

Kathleen Collingbourne receives surprise diploma from Headmaster Hall.

FINANCIAL REPORT FOR 1980-81

The School's financial condition improved significantly. Total revenue and expenses exceeded $2 million for the first time during 1981-82. Compared to the 1979-80 deficit of approximately $30,000.00, higher revenues from increased tuitions and donations resulted in a slight surplus.

Many of the capital additions were long-awaited energy projects, made possible in great measure by the very successful fund-raising efforts of the Woman's Board.

The following is the 1980-81 unaudited financial report. The complete audited report will be available after October, 1981.

ANNUAL GIVING

The 1980-81 Annual Giving campaign for The North Shore Country Day School achieved a new record in 1980-81. Parents, alumni, and friends contributed $255,800 which includes a remarkable $66,200 from the Woman's Board and $34,600 from the Alumni Association. The following roster lists parents and friends whose contributions were received between July 1, 1980 and June 30, 1981. Alumni contributors are listed on following pages.
